

August 7, 2026

Things that Enrich Life

Things that will truly enrich your life:

- Wake up before sunrise and step out.
- Exercise. Strength training; walk or run, if nothing.
- Learn a sport.
- Take Cold showers. 1-2 min at least. Even during Winters
- Measure what you eat. Best discipline.
- Practise Meditation. 15 mins before sleep in bed.
- Fall in Love with yourself.
- Fall in Love with someone.
- Fall out of Love.
- Wake up with a responsibility of caring for some life.
- Experience Death of a loved one. Sitting next to them when they are about to die.
- Buy food for someone who doesn't have means to buy.
- Eat with someone poor. Once where you celebrate, once where they do.
- See a random stranger crying.
- Walk with yourself in complete solitude.
- Sit by a creek in a forest. Watch the water flow. Stillness lives in moving water.
- Travel a lot. More nondescript places, less exotic ones.
- Climb a Mountain.
- Experience grief and trauma.

- Experience bankruptcy. Witness Poverty.
- Choose people who care about how their actions make you feel. Everyone will hurt you at some point; those who are right for you won't make that hurt hurtful.
- Interact with a toddler. Hold hand of an old person.
- Get cheated on. Face rejections.
- Self Respect over Empathy towards others. People won't change to value you and stand by you, just because you did right with them. Integrity is a rarity. Most don't have it.
- Have Regrets.
- Question every narrative.
- Never ask a liar why they lied. To explain it, they would have to lie again.
- Hug someone tightly.
- Cry alone. Cry in front of everyone.
- Never look up to anybody. Never look down upon anybody.
- Learn to cook.
- Character over Reputation. Character is what you truly are. Reputation is what you want others to know who you are.
- Learn to sit back and observe. Not everything needs a reaction.
- Allow people to do what they want to do. Actions always speak louder than words. Let them act.
- Listen when someone wants you to, Talk when You need you to. Speak up, when others need you to.
- Ask Why, Answer Why Not!
- Spend some time in a different country than yours.
- No smoke. No alcohol.
- Visit a war torn country.
- Check on someone you care.

- Don't try to save someone who doesn't want to be saved. Except when they are about to take away their life.
- Read more, Watch less
- Never expect to get what you give.
- "Leap, and the Net will appear"
- Develop a Hobby.
- If have to, Hustle "18 hours" for yourself, not for others.
- Step out in Real Life, Step out of Digital Life.
- Take photographs.
- Love and care for someone deeply and unconditionally.
- Be smarter about who has access to you. Being a good person doesn't mean life will be good to you back.
- Read old Poetry sometimes.
- Call Mom more often.
- Tease someone you love. Tease often!
- Have fun with people. Don't make fun of them.
- Write that Letter to someone who mattered. Post it. Don't Email.
- Send flowers. When they are alive, rather than when they are gone.
- Pick up that phone and call them. Allow someone to be able to call you. Life slips by and then...it's over.
- Ask someone to text or call you when they reach home. Then stay awake for it.
- Watch an animal play with their baby.
- Watch an animal refuse to leave its dead.
- Allow an old person to hold your arm. Experience them hold it tighter with every moment.

- Seek Experiences with People, not Happiness. Searching Happiness in others will only make you feel lonely.
- Silence is also a Language. The sooner you learn it, the better.
- Don't reason your way through human emotions. Feelings aren't puzzles to be solved.
- Get hurt without being hurtful.
- Stop asking why did they do this to me. Start asking what can I do now.
- Realize People are like Experiences. And just like every experience, they will come and go!
- See someone you love deeply, leave you. Love is truly experienced when you miss someone, when you grieve for someone.
- Love People, Use Things. The world is in chaos because Things are being loved and People are being used.
- Don't derive your value from entities. When the entity is gone, you will lose your identity.
- Build your Character before you seek Attention.
- Have Ego in Life. Knowing to have Ego is Knowledge. Choosing not to value it over People who care is Wisdom.
- Agency over Intelligence. Effort creates opportunities.
- Develop a Taste for Music, Writing or Reading. Peace often lives there.
- End things on a high with someone, no matter how bitter the end. The regret that comes after someone's Death lingers for a very long time.
- Love people like they are forever. Hold them like they are seasons.
- Get out everyday, even for 10 mins. Sunlight and moving are natural anti-depressants.
- Get drenched in rain.